THE CITY OF SHANGHAI.

The International Republic of the Far East—A City of Surprises.

An Anglo-American Community—Society in its Shirt Sleeves.

By Henry Norman.)

Truly the stay-at-home is ignorant of many things. Who would have supposed, for instance, that in a journey embracing the grandeur of the Rocky mountains, the charm of Japan, the far-off life of Russia Tartary, the unknown interior of Korea, the Celestial Capital, and the Wall of China, the greatest surprise would be saved for the first sight of Shanghai? True, the magnificence is only skin deep, so to speak, all the architectural beauty and solidity of Shanghai being spread out along the river; but I am speaking only of the first sight of Shanghai, and in this respect it is superior to New York, far ahead of San Francisco and almost as imposing for the moment as Liverpool itself. A broad and beautifully-kept boulevard, called, of course, "The Bund," runs round the river, with a row of well-grown trees and a broad grass-plat at the water's edge, and this Bund is lined on the other side from one end to the other with mercantile buildings second to none of their kind in the world. At the upper end of the Bund a large patch of green shows the Public Garden, where the band plays on summer evenings. At night all Shanghai is and its telegraph poles remind you of Chicago—I believe I counted nearly a hundred wires on one pole opposite the Club. And the needed touch of color is added to the scene as you look at it from on deck, by the gay flags of the mail steamers and the Consular bunting floating over the town.

BRIGHT WITH THE ELECTRIC LIGHT,

Modern Shanghai is divided, like ancient Gaul, into three parts: the English settlement, the American settlement, called Hongkew, and the French "Concession." The latter is the word used by the French themselves, I believe without much to justify it. Three creeks divide these communities from each other, Yang-King-pang, Soochow Creek and Defence Creek, between the English settlements and China. One wide thoroughfare, called "the Maloo," runs through Shanghai out past the race course and the Horse Bazaar into the country, and along this in the afternoon there is and pedestrians and even bicyclists. It is the Rotten Row of Shanghai, leading to the Bubbling Well and Jessfield, and to the country drive the community possesses. But in truth there is not much "country" about it, the environs of Shanghai being flat and ugly and covered with grave mounds as thickly as the battlefields round Gravelotte.

Shanghai dubbed itself long ago the "Model Settlement." Then a noble English globe-trotter came along and afterwards described it in the House of Lords as "a sink of corruption." Thereupon a very witty consul suggested that in future it should be known as the "Model Sink." For my own part I should not grudge it the first title, for it is one of the best governed places municipally, at any rate so far as the Anglo-American quarters are concerned, that I have ever known. The French live apart under their own municipal council, presided over and even dismissed at will by their own consul. The English and Americans coalesce in an elected municipal council of nine members, with an elected chairman at its head. And a short stay at Shanghai is sufficient to show how satisfactorily this works. The roads are perfect, the traffic is kept under admirable control, the streets are quiet and orderly, and even the coolies are forbidden to push their great wheelbarrows through the foreign settlement with ungreased wheels.

THE THIRD SURPRISE OF SHANGHAI

does not dawn upon you immediately. It is a Republic—a community of nations, self governed and practically independent, for it snaps its fingers politely at the Chinese authorities or discusses any matter with them upon equal terms, and it does not hesitate to differ pointedly in opinion from its own Consuls when it regards their action as unwise or their interference as unwarranted. Over the Chinese within its borders the Municipal Council has, however, no jurisdiction. In the "Maloo" there is a magistrate's Yamen, and there the famous "Mixed Court" sits every morning; the Chinese Magistrate and one of the foreign Consuls in turn. All natives charged with offences against foreigners or foreign law are dealt with there, petty criminals being punished in the municipal prison or the chain-gang; serious offenders, or refugees from Chinese law, being sent into the native city. The Chinese Magistrate in the Mixed Court is, of course, a figure-head, chiefly useful, so far as I could see, in lecturing the prisoners, while the foreigner made up his mind what punishment to award. In criminal cases the Mixed Court works fairly well, but in civil suits it gives rise to

NUMEROUS AND BITTER COMPLAINTS.

The population of Shanghai to-day (the last census was in 1885) is probably about 4000 foreigners (British 1500, Japanese 600, Portuguese 450, French 400, American 300, Spanish 250, German 250), and Chinese 175,000. These figures may be considerably under the mark. It is curious that by the "Land Regulations," which form the Constitution of Shanghai, no Chinese are forbidden to reside or hold property within the foreign settlements, and yet here are these 175,000 of them about and ashore, and I fancy Shanghai itself could be astonished if it could be told exactly what proportion of the whole property is in their hands. There has been a good deal of talk about this, and in reply to a Cassandra who wrote to the papers that nothing could save Shanghai but amalgamation with the Chinese, a local writer produced some witty verses, telling how in a vision in the twentieth century:

"I passed a lawyer's office, on the shingle,
Was 'Wang & Johnson, Barristers-at-law'
Where the nations had begun to mingle,
Chinese came first, I saw."

"A steamer passed, a native gave the orders,
An English quartermaster held the wheel;
The chief, going all wave white, the stalwart warders
Yellow from head to heel."

This crushed Cassandra for the moment, but the future of Shanghai is not clear.

The Republic of Shanghai has its own army, of course, composed of volunteer infantry, 150 strong; artillery, with four guns and 45 men; and a smart but diminutive troop of 38 light horse. It has also volunteer fire brigades, and no fewer than of different nationalities. An amusing fact in connection with the artillery—amusing chiefly to any one who appreciates the red tape which binds the military authorities at home—is that they presented the Shanghai volunteers with four excellent field guns and that they send out an annual allowance of ammunition. No doubt they believe that Shanghai is a British colony, whereas the fun lies in the fact that it is simply some land leased in perpetuity from the Emperor of China, and that it is possible at any moment—it may be the case to-day for all I know—that a majority of those serving the guns are non-British subjects. But this is only for the joke's sake. The volunteers get great praise from the official inspector each year, and they may be called upon to protect British lives and property at any moment. So the War Office did a wise thing after all, only now America in her turn should send them a Maxim gun.

The social life at Shanghai is the natural outgrowth of its republican institutions. It is democratic, and characterized by a tolerant good-fellowship. Upon this point a well-known lady was kind enough to set me right. "In Shanghai," she explained, "everybody is equal. In Hongkong everybody is not equal. There are those of us who call at Government House, and those who do not." After so lucid an analysis, it was impossible to err.

SOCIETY LIVES IN ITS SHIRT SLEEVES

—metaphorically speaking, of course, for actually it is an extremely well-dressed community. All male Shanghai meets in the club—one of the most comfortable and complete in the world—before tiffin and before dinner, to exchange news, make up dinner parties and do business—all three with equal zest. And the bar there is as long as a ship's deck and cocktails only cost four cents apiece. Men are known by their nick-names, and I doubt if "the Legal Brother" and "The Boy" and "Bugins" and many others can remember the time when they were familiarly called by the names of the mothers that bore them. And the hospitality of Shanghai is another surprise. You might as well attempt to give your shadow the slip as to escape from the gratuitous good cheer of the Model Settlement. But although the hospitality of Shanghai has winged feet, and the "sequin juice" of one of its tables (a wonderful Burgundy which flows from the vials of a wonderful crystal bird) is known throughout the length and breadth of the China Sea, it has other ideals and cherishes at least a few sacred memories, for did not someone there tell me, with a touch of pride, how Messiet had once kissed him? And as for sport, on the whole

SHANGHAI IS AHEAD OF THE EAST.

It has its charming country club, its races twice a year, its regatta, when the Chinese authorities stop all the native traffic on the river, its polo, its two cricket clubs, its baseball and its shooting parties in house-boats up the Yangtsze for the hills towards mid-summer. And on Saturday afternoon if you walk out to the Bubbling Well about four o'clock you can see the flower of the paper hunt, and a dozen well-mounted and scrupulously dressed jockeys come riding in to the finish and taking a rather hard fence and ditch which has been carefully prepared with the object of receiving half of them in the sight of their fair friends. Finally, there are the hounds and their excellent master, "the Prophet." And what matter if a slanderous tradition does fret their fair fame, to the effect that once upon a time, discarding the deceptive aniseed bag, a fox was imported from Japan, and that the end of that hunting day was that one half of the pack ran into an unlucky chow-dog and broke him up, and the other half chased a Chinese boy for his life, while the master stood upon a grave mound winding his horn to a deserted landscape.

TO THE TIMES ONLY.

Incendiary Fire in Winnipeg—an Elopement.

Special to THE TIMES.)

Winnipeg, June 8—An incendiary fire was discovered in a co-operative grocery store at midnight. The place was badly gutted.

POLITICAL DOCTORS.

Toronto, June 8—At the University convocation this afternoon, Sir John Macdonald, Hon. Blake and other notables received the degree of L. L. D.

ABSURD LAWS.

Port Arthur, June 8—The American steamer Calumet has been fined $400 by the Minister of Customs for an alleged infraction of the wreckage laws in assisting the American schooner off the bar there yesterday.

COMING WEST.

Winnipeg, June 8—Van Horne left at midnight for the inspection of the Brandon-Souris route. He will be joined here by several St. Paul gentlemen on Sunday and proceed to Vancouver.

Yesterday was a busy day at the Canadian Pacific station. Six hundred Ontario excursionists arrived and were dispatched by special trains to various parts of the province.

ELOPED.

Halifax, June 8—Wardroom Steward Smith, of Her Majesty's warship "Comus," left on the steamer Halifax for Boston on Wednesday, after having embezzled a large sum from the officers and men of the ship. It is said he took with him a married woman of this city. On learning of his departure word was telegraphed to the British Consul at Boston to arrest him before the steamer would arrive at her dock, and news has been received that the arrest has been made.

VANCOUVER.

An Indian Burned to Death—Chinese Thief Arrested.

Special to THE TIMES.)

Vancouver, June 8—On Thursday night a ghastly tragedy occurred in the Siwash settlement beyond False Creek, the result of a drunken revelry. A cabin in which was an Indian known as "Cronje's father," took fire. On Friday morning the charred remains were found in the ashes. An Indian and an Italian were arrested charged with having set the cabin on fire. This morning the court house was packed with Italians and Indians. The prisoners were discharged.

A Chinaman was arrested last night with a number of articles stolen from different houses on him.

Coming North.

San Francisco, June 8.—The following are the passengers of the steamer Walla Walla for Victoria, which sails to-morrow morning: Miss Ewing, Miss Wickman, O. Pettner, E. Westwood and wife, C. N. Westwood and wife, Miss B. Moller, Miss E. Ferguson, Miss L. Ferguson, Miss Wynne, Mrs. A. D. Wright, E. D. McDonald, O. Stevens, Mrs. Styles and child, and Miss J. M. Foster.

The Fire Bell.

The roof of one of the old rookeries on Government street, which exists as a standing invitation to fire, caught on fire this afternoon at 2:35 o'clock and drew out the fire department. The firemen, under Assistant Engineer Gaten responded to the alarm quickly and soon extinguished the fire with water from a hydrant. The only damage was a large hole burned in the roof. The lower part of the building is occupied by Geo. Vienna as a game and fish store.

The total Dominion revenue for the eleven months was $21,250,000, and the expenditure was $29,500,000, a substantial increase.

Columbia River Lumber Company has been incorporated.

THE GREAT CALAMITY.

Generosity of the Tacomans—Losses of Former Victorians.

The City Full of Thieves and Tramps—Thousands Homeless.

Special to THE TIMES.)

Seattle, W. T., June 8.—Everything was quiet last night. The burning debris lit up the sky, and the military patrolled the streets. Men without the pass-word were taken to the armory and examined by the commanding officer. Three thousand passes were issued. Relief is coming in from all quarters. Tacoma sent blankets for two thousand, and

FOOD FOR FIVE THOUSAND DAILY.

Hundreds of ladies are providing food in the armory. About 6,000 men and women were fed there yesterday. Former reports of deaths are exaggerated. The latest reports give three lives lost. The fire made a clean sweep from the east side of Front street to the Occidental hotel. In one case a man took an axe and deliberately cut the hose.

The following old Victorians were burned out: H. M. Wright, lost his shop and residence; Gutlese & Co., lost their office; H. E. Leary, lost everything; Boade Bros., lost everything. The principal portion of the burnt district was built on piles. The fire is still burning on the water front. The Victoria firemen worked all day yesterday and saved several shares. In the afternoon they worked hard and saved about $10,000 worth of machinery in Moran Bros' machine shop. Mayor Moran received hundreds of telegrams offering assistance. The electric light works and gas works are burned. Coal oil lamps only were used last night. The city is

FULL OF THIEVES AND TRAMPS

Hundreds of military men and special police men patrolled the streets all night. The erection of new buildings commenced yesterday. Everything that offered a semblance of shelter was utilized last night. Thousands are homeless. Two thousand dollars subscribed for the Johnstown flood sufferers will be withheld. Mayor Moran says he is very thankful to Victoria for the assistance rendered. Sixty acres square are covered by the smouldering ruins. The scene is one of awful desolation. A citizens' meeting was held yesterday to take measures to relieve the sufferers. The entire loss will reach $15,000,000. The streets are lined with tents. The Victoria firemen did good work to-day.

By Postal Telegraph.)

Seattle, June 8.—Things are rapidly quieting down now and everything possible is being done to restore order. There are still a great many without quarters. Tents are being put up in all parts of the city, and the banks and principal merchants are opening offices in all sorts of places. The military and citizen specials are still patrolling the streets, and no one is allowed to pass into the burnt district except with passes. Last night a number of attempts at burglary were frustrated in the residence portion of the city. One thief was captured in a house in Queen Ann Town, and was saved from lynching by the police.

ACTS OF VIOLENCE.

during the fire are now being reported. A merchant, named A. R. Fink, while endeavoring to move goods was assaulted by a special Chief Fire Marshal Murphy and a rough, and nearly killed. Griffin and Condon, two California convicts also made a murderous assault on Wm. Congdon, a Times reporter, but were roughly handled by the crowd. The loss of life is still a matter of uncertainty. It will probably exceed five; only two are authentically known. The names of the men are not obtainable. After eight o'clock at night no one except persons with proper password are allowed in the streets and the regulations are unusually strict. Supplies were received from the Sound towns, and is for a time being especially relieved. The relief committee have put up tents for lodgings and eating purposes on lots adjoining the armory and are feeding hundreds during the day. The armory has been turned into a big police headquarters and relief quarters. To-day firemen are playing on the ruins in a few places to keep the vaults from being further heated. Merchants are busy opening their sales where it is possible to get at them. In many cases the contents are totally destroyed. A couple of bank vaults have been opened and the contents found uninjured. Late yesterday afternoon the motor line commenced running on Second street. The loss keeps increasing and is now placed at $20,000,000. The

IMMEDIATE SUFFERING

AREA OF BURNT DISTRICT

is same as already given. At 1:30 o'clock Second street is packed with a large crowd of idle men thrown out of employment, and in a few days much suffering will probably be felt. A large number of the principal property owners have signified their intention to commence the erection of brick blocks as soon as possible. A gang of men are already at work in clearing away debris and getting out sales at the outer edge of the burnt district. Preparations are being made to open restaurants in tents by Monday. The losses as far as reported are the same as the morning papers' reports.

IT HAS BEEN DECIDED ON

rebuilding the city. Within the business streets, twenty feet and extending on Front, Commercial and Second streets straight through to the water's edge, no frame building will be allowed to be burnt district under any circumstances. Tents will be put up for temporary quarters. The city is the heaviest loser in the destruction of municipal wharves and water front. On Monday a meeting of citizens will be held and regulations for rebuilding the city be made. The wind is blowing blinding clouds of smoke back over the city at the present hour.

SPECIAL CONTRIBUTIONS.

Harrisburg, June 8.—Governor Hill, of New York, has been invited by Governor Beaver to join him in a proclamation inviting the people of New York and Pennsylvania to make special contributions in the churches to-morrow for the relief of the sufferers by the disastrous fire at Seattle, and has suggested that George W. Childs, of Philadelphia, and ex-President Cleveland, and Jay Gould be appointed a central committee to receive such contributions for transmission to the proper authorities in Washington Territory, for the relief of the Seattle sufferers. Gen. Hill's answer is not yet received, but Gen. Beaver is hourly expecting his assent to a proper person.

THE OAKS.

London, June 7.—Race for the Oaks was won by L'Abbesse; Minthe, second; Seclusion third.

LIMBS FOUND.

London, June 7.—The leg and foot of the unfortunate woman, Fisher, a portion of whose body has been found in various quarters, were picked up in the Thames this morning.

PROMOTION OF "CALLIOPE" ENGINEER.

London, June 7.—Henry Geo. Bourke, Staff Engineer on the British man-of-war "Calliope", has been promoted to be Fleet Engineer, in recognition of his services on the "Calliope" when she steamed out of the harbor of Apia during the hurricane that destroyed the American and German war vessels.

AMERICANS ARRESTED IN IRELAND.

Dublin, June 7.—Two Americans who had just arrived from New York and were on their way to West Meath, were arrested at Tullamore to-day, owing to suspicious appearance of their baggage, of which they had a large quantity.

INDIANS ON THE WAR-PATH.

Helena, June 7—A party of Assiniboine Indians are reported to be on their way across the border to make a horse raid on the Crow tribe. Lieutenant Thurston, of the Eighth Cavalry, with a detachment of twenty men and four Indian scouts, left Fort Keogh on Wednesday night for the North side of the Yellowstone River to work over toward Fort Assiniboine and intercept the marauders.

FROM SAMOA.

Sydney, N. S. W., June 7.—The arrival of the steamer Lubeck at this port from Apia brings advices from Samoa to May 28th. When the Lubeck sailed everything was quiet in Samoa, the contending natives observing the truce. In consequence of a report in circulation amongst them that additional German war ships were on their way to Apia, Mataafa had recalled his followers and it was expected three thousand of them would soon be gathered into one camp. Tamasese, with two thousand followers, still remained in his old camp at Aton. There were no men-of-war at Apia. When the Lubeck sailed the Nipsic had sailed for Auckland, accompanied by the Alert. They were to stop at Tutuila for coal. The British war vessel Rapid had gone to the Fiji Islands.

Chicago, June 7—The Southern Pacific railroad has given notice of withdrawal from the Transcontinental Association. This step, following a minor action by the Northern Pacific and the resignation of Chairman Leed, is quite generally accepted here as meaning the virtual disruption of the association. The extraordinary differentials of the Canadian Pacific and the restrictions of the Inter State law, which the foreign road escaped, are the causes assigned for the collapse.

EGAN RECALLED FROM CHILI.

Chicago, June 7—A special to the Times says that Secretary Blaine has sent a cablegram to Chili, requesting Minister Egan to return by the next steamer. John A. Sessins, of Chicago, Dr. Cronin's most intimate friend, has recently made several visits to President Harrison, and it is said the recall is to give Mr. Egan an opportunity to testify in the Cronin case.

ANOTHER BIG FIRE.

Birmingham, Ala., June 7.—A fire at Livingston, Louisiana, early this morning, destroyed half of the town. The loss is probably two hundred thousand dollars, with little insurance. The telegraph communication is cut off and particulars hard to get.

BREAKING DOWN.

London, June 8.—It is reported that Mrs. Maybrick is breaking down physically, and that her mind is giving way. The verdict of the coroner's jury has been a great shock to her, and in her enfeebled condition she may not be able to survive the blow.

LIMBS FOUND.

London, June 8.—The left arm and hand of a woman was found in the Thames this morning. A comparison of the arm with other parts found show it is a part of the same person. Search for the remaining portions are being made.

SAILORS' STRIKE.

Dublin, June 8.—Shipping business is at a stand still at Belfast owing to a general strike among sailors. At Glasgow three thousand dock laborers struck for an increase of half a penny an hour in their wages. Stevedors demand an increase of a penny an hour.

PERSONAL.

Items Telling of Movements of Well Known Persons.

Mr. N. Babine and bride returned from their honeymoon trip to Portland yesterday.

H. E. Brown, of the C. P. R. passed through Victoria last night to Seattle. He will reopen the office of the company in that city at once, and if no better accommodation can be secured a tent will be used in the meantime.

J. Hayden, of Vancouver, came down on the Islander last evening. Mr. Hayden has been offered a big price for one of the lots he fought so long and at last successfully for.

G. W. Bigger, who witnessed the awful fire in Seattle returned to this city yesterday, minus several articles lost in the flames.

A. C. Flummerfelt arrived from the mainland last evening.

Ald. Abrams, of Nanaimo, a prospective candidate for the Local Legislature, is in the city.

A R. Brown, Tokio, Japan, is in the city.

Right Rev. Bishop Lootens is in Seattle.

G. A. Keefer, of Vancouver, is in town.

A. C. Flummerfelt returned from the mainland last evening.

Ald. Abrams, of Nanaimo, a prospective candidate for the Local Legislature, is in the city.

A R. Brown, Tokio, Japan, is in the city.

Right Rev. Bishop Lootens is in Seattle.

G. A. Keefer, of Vancouver, is in town.

A. C. Flummerfelt returned from the mainland last night.

D. Murphy, of the 14-mile house, Cariboo road, is in town, his first visit to Victoria in thirty-five years. Mr. Murphy arrived here in 1858, and remembers this city as a collection of huts and tents.

The Right Rev. Bishop Hills is expected to arrive from England in about a week.

Frank Findlay, who sold out his interest in the Brunswick hotel a few months ago, left for San Diego on to-day's steamer, for the purpose of entering into business down there with his brother.

Henry Villard, leading director of the Northern Pacific Railway and formerly president of the company, arrived last evening on the Islander, having travelled west in his special car over the C. P. R. Mr. Villard left for Portland this morning to attend the annual general meeting of the O. R. & N. Company.

W. C. Ward, manager of the Bank of B. C., and Mrs. Ward returned from a European tour last evening. Mr. Ward has been much improved by the trip and is enjoying excellent health. During their travels they met Victorians almost everywhere they went.

Mr. Cleghorn, collector of customs for the Hawaiian Islands, and brother-in-law of King Kalakaua, who has been visiting Victoria for the last few days in company with two friends, left for San Francisco on the Mexico to-day.

For the South.

The Mexico sailed this afternoon for San Francisco with the following passengers: A S Cleghorn, T. S. Findley, T. A. Schaefer, T. May, Rev. D. H. Reid, T. W. Brown, Miss St. Clair, H. J. Scott, Mrs D. Wentworth, T. G. Bressvich, George Henderson and Andrew J. Smith.

THE SEATTLE FIRE.

Some Further Particulars of the Great Conflagration.

Marvellous Rapidity of its Spread—The Losses and General Incidents.

Special to THE TIMES.)

The following is the continuation of our special dispatches of yesterday, a portion only of which was published.

The explosion shattered the windows in the big brick blocks south of Columbia, and several persons were badly cut by falling glass. At five minutes past four o'clock the Kennedy brick block on the corner of Front and Columbia, caught fire and the top engine, No. 1, was then forced to pull up and attack at the corner of Cherry street. Before the stream could be started every building north of Columbia street was on fire.

AT THE SAN FRANCISCO BLOCK.

The San Francisco building was the next apparent barrier to the progress of the flames. Every window of the building was curtained with heavy wet blankets. A charge of powder was placed under the Whale block, across the street but it did not move the building, which, in a few minutes, caught on fire, from the Kenny block, and the walls of which fell toward at 20 minutes to 5 o'clock, sending up clouds of sparks and burning brands that scattered over the roofs of adjoining blocks. Gen. J. B. McCaff led a party to the roof of the building, and a line of hose was soon raised by means of ropes. Again the terrible inefficiency of water baffled the efforts of the workers. The water barely came from the nozzle of the hose and the fire fighters found themselves weaponless in the face of a terrible enemy. Several charges of dynamite were then placed under the corner of the San Francisco store, which by this time was on fire, but they failed to have any effect. All of the powder in the city was by this time expended, and messengers were despatched to the powder house for more.

A FEARFUL SEA OF FLAMES.

At 5 o'clock the scene became indescribable. The fire had left the San Francisco store a mass of ruins and had passed into the Union block adjoining on the opposite side of the street. Every building was on fire and the heat was so terrible that no more effort could be made to check the fire there. The side streets were block with people carrying their possessions to places of safety and the goods caught fire from the burning brands. Goods were thrown from the buildings. At 5 o'clock the wind, which had hitherto been blowing gently from the north, veered square around and came in fitful bursts from the south, beating back the wall of fire, which had reached Cherry street on the east side of Front street and which had been checked for a moment by heavy walls of safe deposit building. Again hope was entertained that the progress of the fire in its southward course might be checked, but it was short lived. A moment later a strong breeze from the north west sprung up and at twenty minutes past 5 the fire had reached the Gordon hardware company's block. In the building there were over thirty tons of cartridges, which went off in a perfect fusillade, continuing over twenty minutes. In the Seattle hardware company's store adjoining there were twenty tons of cartridges, and they commenced to explode about the time the dim had ceased from the other lot.

THE BURNT DISTRICT.

The burnt district covers an area of 120 acres, yet the contents of the vaults and safes of all the banks have not been injured. This means a reduction of $1,500,000, it is estimated, from the total loss. The fire made a clean sweep from Union street, on the north, the line separating the ruins running along Front street to Seneca, thence zigzag across to Second; following Second to Yesler avenue, thence out of Yesler avenue to South Fourth street, and thence to South Fifth street on the water front and near the gas works. The gas tanks were spared; also the large new warehouse 400 by 91 feet, and the Seattle Transfer Co.

CONSIDERED THEMSELVES FORTUNATE.

In the district south of Yesler avenue there were over 150 hotels and lodging houses. The inmates of those places escaped with their lives and what they were and considered themselves fortunate. The Seattle Transfer Company saved its teams and many of its vehicles. South of Yesler avenue the walls of, Schwabacher Bros., Harrington & Smith, Dexter, Horton & Co., Lewis & Co.'s brick and stone buildings, all with part of their contents destroyed, are the only standing monuments of this busy mart of yesterday. The Arlington hotel made a very rapid fire, and several guests who attempted to save valuables narrowly escaped being burned to death.

A TERRIBLE SIGHT.

At 7:30 o'clock the sight from in front of the court house was magnificently terrible. The entire flat below Yesler avenue was a sea of flame, with the streams of fire along Front street, showing through ruined walls, as tributaries. The setting sun showed blood-red through a cloud of smoke, and the air was so surcharged with heat that respiration became difficult. The firemen, realizing the futility of fighting the fire on the flat, turned their attention toward checking the fire on the east. At 8 o'clock the wall of fire reached the water front, leaving utter ruin and desolation behind it. Every wharf, every dock, the coal bunkers, the mills, and everything that could burn was destroyed to its foundation. The burned district or eighty acres exclusive of the water front, which comprises about twenty blocks or forty acres more, making the total acreage of the devastated territory 120 acres. Beginning at the foot of University street the boundary of the district runs east to Front street, thence south half way to Jackson street, and then east again to Second street, along Second street to James, up James to Third, and thence along north Third street to the water's edge. In this immense territory not a single building escaped the fury of the flames.

INCLUDES FORTY BLOCKS

Harrison Hot Springs Notes.

Big baskets of fish are so common now that only the largest are considered worthy of mention. On Monday a guest of the hotel spent three hours casting the fly and during that time successfully landed 136 fine trout.

A trail has been cut from Trout lake to a small unnamed lake beyond, and a cabin will be built on the shore for the convenience of the sportsmen. The lake is only two miles from Trout lake, and the fish in it are said to be much larger and equally as numerous as in Trout lake. A number of fishing parties will visit it next week and results are anxiously awaited.

Several new cottages are going up on the new townsite.

A hunting lodge has been built at a point some thirty miles up the lake. Game of all kinds is reported to be plentiful in the vicinity.

ABOUT MESMERISM.

Mesmerism and hynotism, from all accounts, were practiced in remote antiquity. The Egyptians are credited with having been the most ardent investigators in the region of the occult, which embraced magic, both black and white, including the elementary phases of rigidity and muscular control, and the more advanced stages of thought and clairvoyance. We find incubato or temple sleep not merely familiar to the Egyptians and Greeks, but also to the Romans, and records of their sibylline books at a late period of Roman history and sibyls and vestal virgins were consulted by men as bold and as philosophical as JULIUS CÆSAR. Sibyls or clairvoyants having as it was supposed the gift of prophecy, prevailed in all nations, among which were the Chaldean, Libyan, and Delphic sibyls, one of which was celebrated by HOMER. Besides the references to sibyls by the best known writers of the world, many of the fathers of the Christian Church have also referred to and quoted their predictions, among whom may be named Pope CLEMENT, JUSTIN MARTYR, EUSEBIUS, ST. JUSTIN, and many others.

But whether sibyl virgins were normal clairvoyants, or were influenced by the magnetic passes of the priest, or subjected to the influences of drugs and vapors, it would be difficult to decide. Any of the modes are practicable, but the theory that they were normal sensitives is the most probable, and that they unaided passed into the cloirvoyant state. Besides the passive influences at work to produce magnetic sleep, the ordinary mesmeric passes or strokings were evidently known and practised. CELSUS, a physician of Rome, records that ASCLEPIADES, a celebrated Greek physician, practised light friction for the purpose of inducing sleep in patients suffering from frenzy and insanity, and he further says that too much friction was liable to produce lethargy. Both clairvoyance and healing by stroking were neglected after the fall of the Roman Empire, and, throughout what have been properly termed the dark ages, until the reign of CHARLES II., at which date a gentleman named VALENTINE GREATRAKES achieved great reputation by stroking and curing various persons who had been afflicted by leprosy, tumors, and other cutaneous diseases. A record of some of GREATRAKES' cures was published in the London Medical Gazette for October 12th, 1849, entitled, "The Practice of Mesmerism for the cure of diseases in the Seventeenth Century."

MESMER, the father of latter day mesmerism, fell under the influence of an astronomical professor, a Jesuit named HELL, who was a believer in the loadstone as a remedy for diseases. MESMER, at the age of forty-two, obtained from him the secret of a peculiar form of magnetic steel plates, which he applied for the purpose of curing diseases, and was in many cases successful. His reputation rapidly spread, and, as a natural consequence, he excited the ill will of his medical brethren, and finally quitted the city in which he then resided. MESMER, however, knew little or nothing of his art as compared with the mesmerists of the present day, for it was soon discovered that the magnet used by him were not essential, and that the so-called magnetic power proceeded exclusively from the body of the operator. With such evidence as this before us, coupled with the exploits of BASCE, now deceased, and of divers other persons less notable, mesmerism apparently resolves itself into perfectly normal phenomena. The fact that all persons are not "sensitives," argues nothing against the mesmeric philosophy, any more than there is no such thing as poetry because all men cannot write it. The poetic quality is instinct in all men, varying in degree only, so that only a few persons are able to make positive use of it. The same rule is applicable to mesmerism and on the whole we seem to have in mesmerism a philosophy well worth searching investigation. If we cannot account for the phenomena of the poetic quality, we may well pause before we condemn as abnormal the phenomena of the mesmeric quality.

THE NEWS AND HEREDITY.

We do not say it because we are provoked to anger, because we recognise that those who touch people up must expect to be touched up themselves; but we must say in all candour that when the News runs foul of the Times it has a happy faculty of showing its ignorance. In offering a rejoinder to the News' comments on our article on "Hereditary Law Making", we shall pass over with but few remarks the insinuation that we plagarize, or steal editorial thunder entire from eastern contemporaries. This is a species of fiction which passes so frequently among newspapers that it has lost all virtue, save as a method of padding out the editorial column. It is an accusation no longer in vogue except among country editors, who as a rule are too stupid or too lazy to throw off original work, and judging others by themselves accuse their more lively contemporaries of literary theft. Newspaper writers, as the News very well knows, must take their text from something. They cannot weave their articles out of whole cloth. Furnished the warp of a subject, they pass through it the filling of their own ideas, give to the web the texture of their thought or idiosyncracies, unless as in the case of the News, which assumes to furnish the warp as well as filling, with the result that it offers to the world a great deal of shoddy. Nor shall we in pursuing our rejoinder on hereditary law makers, resume the subject of Tupperism. There is no occasion for it in fact, because the animus of the News is to show that family prestige goes for a great deal in the United States. The News should know, if it knows anything, that the ADAMSES' and the AKES' are political dead letters, and that neither ROBT. LINCOLN nor Col. GRANT have ever held public offices as a gift direct from the people. Their offices have all been held by appointment from the executive head of the government. GARFIELD-appointed LINCOLN to the office of Secretary of War, and HARRISON later appointed him to the Court of St. James. But LINCOLN has no pedigree, his father was a plebian. Col. GRANT was defeated last year for a state office in the state of New York, and he was beaten because the average voter in that state resents the idea that the virtues of the father descend to the son. The son must do something first to prove that he has virtues, and this Col. GRANT has failed to do. There is a difference between being appointed and being elected. We laid stress on this feature in our former article, but the News was too dense to see it. So far as grandfather's hat is concerned, that was the offspring of ridicule, and was used as a foil to the red bandanna. HARRISON was a compromise candidate. Undoubtedly his being the grandson of a former president helped him, but it will be recollected that not a manor house, but a log cabin is the HARRISON coat of arms. Any one who has ever lived in the United States knows well that for political purposes a pedigree is against a man's political chances. There are exceptions, of course, but none so flagrant as in the case of the feudal house of TUPPER. Mark the case of WARD MACALLISTER. His unfortunate remark about the four hundred, doubtless true in part, has forever debarred him from acting in a public capacity. Does the News remember the Governor-General's ball? Our object is not to eulogize the United States. Canada is good enough for us, but this injecting into public life two young men who have never made a public speech so far as we have heard is a bad precedent. As for Victoria, which the News accuses us of ignoring in our argument, present company is always excepted. The News knows that, and its fling at our parliamentary incumbents was unkind. It would not have spoken so brutally at short range. The News' isolation makes it to speak with a great deal of latitude. Its utterances have the easy liberality of style which distinguish the back woods, and we can almost see the stumps in the News' backyard. If the News would expend the quantity of venom on its rival that it does on THE TIMES, the former long ago would have folded its tent and migrated to Kamloops.

"You might ennoble the greatest fiddler of the century, but that would not entail a succession of greatest fiddlers. If Queen Elizabeth had created Shakespeare Baron Shakespeare, of Stratford-on-Avon, he supposed we should have had a succession of lively and versatile gentlemen, though he did not think we should have secured even a second repetition of 'Hamlet' or 'Macbeth.' If the principle contended for were sound, why should it be limited to the feudal magnates of the hereditary Chamber? Why were the Bishops to be deserted by the principle or heredity? Was this, too, part of the revenge which science was taking upon theology?"

But we beg pardon for rejoining to an article which has nothing to recommend it but its profound ignorance of political doings in the States, and we conclude by quoting Mr. WALLACE in a speech in the House of Commons.

THE LORDS.

Mr. LABOUCHERE's motion to abolish the House of Lords has been rejected by a vote of 201 to 160, but the failure to carry does not seem to have resulted so much in affection for the Peers as from the idea that a second chamber is necessary as a check to hasty and ill-considered legislation. The debaters were pretty well argued that there should be reform in the composition of the second chamber; the rock they split on was the nature of the reform. Lord BRAMPTON was in favor of reform in the House of Lords if it could be found, and in fact the hereditary principle was defended only on the ground that if it was good for princes it was good for peers. The grand objection in the way of the abolition of the House of Lords, however, was the idea that the conservatism of the Lords was necessary to check the radicalism of Parliament. The Globe, in commenting, says, "that those who take this view of the case overlook the truth that a divided responsibility fosters carelessness, and that care and conservatism are the results of complete responsibility." For twenty years, the Globe continues, "Ontario has been conducted by a single chamber. Whatever charges have been brought against it, it has rarely been contended that its legislation was hasty and ill-considered, or that it succumbed too readily to the transient gusts of popular opinion. In some respects—notably in the case of the extension of the franchise—it has been charged with being slow and conservative. On the other hand, where the so-called constitutional check exists there is clearly a temptation to rely upon it, and to pass the hastily-framed measure upon the assumption that the second Chamber will give it more careful consideration. Such is the argument in a nut shell in favor of a single House, and those who are of the opinion that a body of hereditary "piebald" idlers, spend thrifts and habitual absentees, to use the language of Mr. CURZON, are indispensable to check hasty and inconsiderate legislation, can digest it at their leisure.

TRUSTS.

If there is anything clear to the average comprehension it is the perniciousness of Trusts. Any man who has the slightest idea of business can readily grasp the fact that combinations may depress or inflate values at their option, and yet, notwithstanding so simple a principle as this, the committee of the New York Senate which was appointed more than a year ago to investigate, and, as we supposed, to curse the Trusts, seems, Balaam-like, to have "blessed them altogether." According to the Philadelphia Record, a majority of the committee have presented an elaborate report in which they defend the Trusts as natural and a necessary phenomena to the development of trade. "The conclusion of the report is," says the Record, "that Trusts and Monopolies are a blessing in greater or less degree, while free competition is treated as a dangerous evil." This may mean, of course, that the judgments of a majority of the committee have been convinced by evidence, or it may simply mean that those interested in trusts and monopolies are wealthy and powerful, and know how to make their influence felt even in a New York State Senatorial Committee. Such a report, unless accompanied with evidence of a more convincing nature than has yet been given to the public, will not convince either the interested many or the thoughtful few that these combinations in restraint of production and trade can safely be left to have free course in a free country. It may, however, add another item to the cumulative argument of those who claim that the true remedy lies, in the direction, not of State prohibition, but of State control of the better classes of these combinations.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Could not the United States Government be persuaded to agree to a modus vivendi and to grant licenses allowing Canadians, Englishmen, Frenchmen and other non-Americans to fish in the Pacific Ocean?

The separate system of drainage has been adopted with striking results in some towns in England and is soon to be tried in Paris and Berlin. At Rugby the yearly death rate has been reduced from 24 in 1000 to 12, and at other places from an average of 24 to an average of 10. At the same time the average life rate has advanced. Females, who spend most time indoors, and wage classes, who are largely exposed to the risks of defective sanitation, receive the largest proportionate benefit from improved sanitary conditions. Not only life, but that which makes life desirable, is affected by such conditions. Mental and moral irritations, disorder and despair result from low sanitary conditions of populations, while high sanitary conditions are the sources of satisfaction, of political security, prosperity, order and peace.

Father Damien's work in the Hawaiian leper settlement, though a very distinguished instance of missionary heroism, is not a solitary one. The Missionary Year Book for 1889, published by the Religious Tract Society, shows that the 135,000 lepers of India have had their ministrants, chiefly from Scotland and Ireland, for the last fifteen years. The work of the missionaries extends to places which even ambition and greed fail to find. Among these is Terra del Fuego, whose inhabitants had no articulate language, and were described as incapable of being Christianized or civilized. Missionary after missionary was butchered before a footing was obtained, and now the missionaries have contrived to find an articulate language for them, and there are schools, orphanages, mothers' meetings, and all the machinery of an English parish in Terra del Fuego.

CITY AND PROVINCE.

MALADIES MULTIPLY ONE ANOTHER. A simple fit of digestion may—especially if the constitution is not naturally vigorous—throw the entire mechanism of the liver and bowels out of gear. Sick headache follows, poisoning of the blood by bile ensues, and there is grave and serious disturbance of the entire system. Check the threatened dangers at the outset with Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure, the medicine that drives every impurity from the blood.

"His pills as thick as hand-grenades flew and where they fell as certainly slew." was said of one of those ignorant doctors in the early times, who might well have been called the aide-de-camp of death. The sufferer from scrofula, with sores as bad as Job's, need not now curse the day he was born, for Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery will restore health and beauty, appetite and strength. Especially has it manifested its potency in curing salt rheum, tetters, boils, carbuncles, sore eyes, scrofulous sores and swellings, hip joint diseases, white swellings, goitre or thick neck, or enlarged glands. W.S.

"Penny Wise and Pound Foolish" That's what men are who plod along—trying to do their business, when they feel half dead. Their eyes are dim and sticky; their head aches; the children annoy them; their wives lose their charms; they lose their ambition; they make mistakes in their accounts, and the whole world looks blue; they hate themselves and everyone else. And why? If you feel so, why dont you stop and think a minute—or are you too stupid? Your liver and blood are out of order; that's all. You need a good regulator and tonic. Take a bottle of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and you will feel like a new man. In three days your wife will be the prettiest and sweetest woman in the world; your children's disposition will be exactly like your own; your business will improve, and you will make money enough to pay for the "Golden Medical Discovery" a hundred times over. Don't be stubborn, but try it.

If you suffer from "cold in the head", or from Nasal Catarrh, use Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy. It cures when everything else fails.

AYER'S Sugar-Coated Cathartic PILLS.

If the Liver becomes torpid, if the bowels are constipated, or if the stomach fails to perform its functions properly, use Ayer's Pills. They are invaluable.

For some years I was a victim to Liver Complaint, in consequence of which I suffered from General Debility and Indigestion. A few boxes of Ayer's Pills restored me to perfect health.—W. T. Brightney, Henderson, W. Va.

For years I have relied more upon Ayer's Pills than anything else, to my bowels. These Pills are mild in action, and do their work thoroughly. I have used them, with good effect, in cases of Rheumatism and Dyspepsia.—G. P. Miller, Attleborough, Mass.

Regulate

Ayer's Pills cured me of Stomach and Liver troubles, from which I had suffered for years. I consider them the best pills made, and would not be without them.—Morris Gates, Downsville, N. Y.

I was attacked with Bilious Fever, which was followed by Jaundice, and was so dangerously ill that my friends despaired of my recovery. I commenced taking Ayer's Pills, and soon regained my customary strength and vigor.—John C. Parsons, Lowell, Nebraska.

Last spring I suffered greatly from a troublesome humor on my side. In spite of every effort to cure this eruption, it increased until the flesh became entirely raw. I was troubled, at the same time, with Indigestion, and distressing pains in

The Bowels.

By the advice of a friend I began taking Ayer's Pills. In a short time I was free from pain, my food digested properly, the sores on my body commenced healing, and, in less than one month, I was cured.—Samuel D. White, Atlanta, Ga.

I have long used Ayer's Pills, in my family, and believe them to be the best pills made.—S. C. Darden, Darden, Miss.

My wife and little girl were taken with Dysentery a few days ago, and I at once began giving them small doses of Ayer's Pills, thinking I would call a doctor if the disease became any worse. In a short time the bloody discharges stopped, all pain went away, and health was restored.—Theodore Ealing, Richmond, Va.

MARY'S DAFT ONE.

Dougherty, Who Fell in Love with Anderson.

MANY OTHERS ARE LIKE HIM.

Though Not Very Many Are So Badly Affected as This Simple One Was—How He Looks—Some Sage Reflections on Falling in Love with Actresses.

In these days a man—that is a dweller of the town—who has attained the age of 40 and has not been wildly in love with one or more actresses, is a rarity.

When faint suggestions of microscopic down commence to appear on a youth's chin; when he is at a loss what to do with his hands and feet; when he outgrows a coat once a week, and his sleeves are always too short; when his voice is a combination of preternatural bass and yodling tenor; when he is looked upon by his sisters as a positive nuisance, and by his younger brothers as the very embodiment of all that is heroic, grand and noble, when he is eternally hungry, never gets enough to eat, and eats enough to ration a regiment; it is at this age, back upon which a man always looks with mingled feelings of amusement and tenderness, that your ingenuous youth experiences calf love for an actress.

It is not violent nor fierce, nay, the boy scarcely says a word. He considers himself deeply injured by the universe in general; treads, becomes morbid and surly; quits playing ball; enters the yard by the back gate and the house by the back door; anxiously watches the glass for the wished for pallor of his countenance; combs his hair back straight; reads Byron, and wishes he were a corsair; roams aimlessly, sighs continually; hovers around the theatre door, probably lacking funds to enter and rapturously gaze upon his idol, in short, is as great an ass as he possibly could be.

Why not?

It hurts no one, and the boy may be the better for the experience.

IT'S DIFFERENT WITH A GROWN MAN.

But when a man of 35 becomes so deeply smitten with an actress that he will follow her over two continents for six years, and waste a fortune in traveling without ever having spoken a word to the object of his affections, and finally lands himself in jail on account of his persistence in trying to obtain an interview with her, the matter grows rather more interesting, and the only inference to be drawn is that the man must have been either insane or singularly unfortunate, or both.

J. M. DOUGHERTY.

He is probably both.

The name of the man is James M. Dougherty, and the name of the actress he has been following is Mary Anderson.

Dougherty is from Salem, N. Y., and he says that six years ago he had an independent fortune, all of which he spent in chasing Miss Anderson over Europe and America. On the night that Miss Anderson reappeared in this country at Palmer's theatre in New York city, Dougherty was arrested by Inspector Byrnes while standing in front of the theatre, and a huge bullnog revolver was found in his pocket. Inspector Byrnes had been notified by Miss Anderson's father that a strange man, who had been frequently observed by them at the theatres of Europe, had returned on the same vessel with them, and had effusively presented a bouquet to Miss Anderson when they landed. Whether or not he intended to shoot Miss Anderson at the theatre is a mooted question, but he himself says that he did not.

MRS. CHANLER'S FOOTWEAR.

She Has Her Shoes and Stockings Made with Toes, as Gloves Have Fingers.

Mrs. Ariadne Rives-Chanler, high priestess of eroticism, grand moguless of the unconventionals and past mistress in the doubtful art of feverish word painting, after having at one bound sprung to the topmost pinnacle of fame through that burning novel, "The Quiet or the Dead" and the drama "Herod and Mariamne," has just sprung a new thing on the breathless public.

Digitated stockings.

That is, shoes with toes.

They are made of kid. They come up to the knees, and are fastened on the inside by small buttons. Mrs. Chanler has beautifully arched little feet, and when she describes the feet of the impulsive Barbara in her book she was thinking, no doubt, of her own.

Curious things, too, these digitated shoes. They are apt to startle you when you see them peeping from the lower flounce of a soft, well fitting morning gown. Mrs. Chanler thinks it deathenish to crowd the toes all together in tight shoes. Why should we crowd our toes all together and let our fingers go free? she asks.

THE RIVES-CHANLER'S FOOTGEAR.

Ingenious Amelia!

She has several pairs of these shoes. They are in different colors. They are lined with satin throughout, except in the toes and over the instep. They are made of the same kid which is used for gloves, and cost about $20 a pair.

Mary Anderson is the only other known woman who has put her toes in fingers. When she plays Galatea she wears a pair of white silk stockings fitted to the toes. She does not like to appear in her bare feet, and plain stockings would not be art, as she wears digitated stockings and little white sandals under them. These stockings she had made specially to order and each pair cost her $25.

HER MOTHER'S CHEAP RESTAURANT.

But She Was Rich, Her Horses Were Restive and the Scene Drew a Crowd.

Half the people in Chatham square, says The New York Sun, resident and visiting, stopped and stared at a stylish woman who was trying to get out of a fashionable equipage one afternoon last week. The station headed English coachman could not get the prancing horses to remain quiet, for was a very swell combination—the woman, the beautiful fiery bay horses and the carriage, with its delicate monogram on the panels.

The woman was handsome, haughty and richly dressed. Big diamond earrings sparkled beneath the small pink tinted ears. A close fitting jacket of light Melton revealed a handsome bust and slender waist. Her hair was gleaming golden and her features were pure and classical. She was tall and evidently youthful. She had appeared in the grimy, vulgar atmosphere of the square fifteen minutes before. The horses had taken fright from the elevated trains, and had joined their fair burden considerably.

Somebody in the crowd volunteered to hold them, and after a few more plunges the horses were quieted. The young lady paid no attention to the coachman or the man holding the horses, but a slight frown showed that she was annoyed. At that moment the doors of a little restaurant opened. It was almost hidden under signs of cheap food, such as "Veal Pie, 5 cents," "pea soup, 3 cents," "roast veal and plenty of potatoes, 5 cents."

The young lady's eyes turned upon this door with added impatience. After a little delay a short, fat woman, expensively and showily dressed, came out and got into the carriage. The coachman whipped up the horses so that they almost overturned the man holding them, and the young woman threw him a silver half dollar. The horses rushed around the corner of Worth street and were soon lost to sight. The man who had held the horses grabbed his silver and went off elated with several cronies.

A curious character ventured to inquire the cause of the visit to the restaurant. The answer was that the old woman was the owner of the building in which the restaurant was located and also the financial backer of the restaurant. She had made a great deal of money out of it. Formerly she was poor and lived in the house. The young woman was her daughter, who had been educated and reared in luxury on the profits of the cheap eating house.

THE WHEEL OF THE WORLD.

The wheel of the world turns round and round;
Those who are uppermost soon may be
Down in the dust or under the ground;
The king is chaine, the serf set free,
Over the track is sunshine and rain
It rolls on, over and over again.

The wheel of the world moves day and night,
And its swift revolutions bring
Nations from darkness into light,
Where bells of the good time coming ring.
Over the plot where the palace stone,
It rolls in the dust of the crown and throne.

Around and round the wheel turns and goes,
And we go with it, now up, then down;
Few win the prize that many must toil,
Tired at the goal, how late come the crowd
The brave, the true, the noble, the just,
Will never be lost in the whirling dust.

The Beggars of China.

A writer in a Shanghai journal referring to the beggars of China, says that large donations are given to them by the people, but these are in the nature of an insurance. In the cities the beggars are organized into very powerful guilds, more powerful by far than any organization with which they can have to contend, for the beggars have nothing to lose and nothing to fear, in which respects Lay stand alone. The shop keeper who should refuse a donation to a stalwart beggar, after the latter has waited for a reasonable time and has besought with what lawyers call "due diligence," would be liable to invasion from a horde of famished wretches, who would render the existence even of a stolid Chinaman a burden, and who would utterly prevent the transaction of any business until their continually rising demands should be met. Both the shop keepers and the beggars understand this perfectly well, and it is for this reason that the gifts flow in a steady, if tiny, rill.—London Times.

The Magnet in Surgery.

Mechanics and others employed in iron factories frequently suffer some annoyance and no little pain from the accidental introduction into the eye of particles of steel, iron filings, etc. All persons engaged in work of this kind should carry with them magnets, the use of which rarely fails to remove the foreign body. A man in Lonvale, Ga., drove a piece of steel filing into his eyeball a few days ago, and a surgeon spent some time in vain endeavors to extract it. Finally he brought a powerful electro-magnet to his aid, by means of which the offensive particle was at once removed. It was over a quarter of an inch long, and its entire length had been imbedded in the eyeball.—Chicago News.

Barked Up the Wrong Tree.

Young Mr. Cheekbone (who thinks he's been having quite a desperate flirtation through the evening with a young married woman)—Aw, good night, Mrs. de Terwilliger, thank you for a very pleasant evening; and, if I am not too presumptuous (sweetly) may I have the pleasure of calling upon you—aw—say to-morrow afternoon?

Mrs. de Terwilliger—No, not in the afternoon, Mr. Cheekbone. I devote every afternoon to my baby, dear little fellow; I fairly ache to get hold of him now; but I will be glad to see you in the evening, when you will have a chance to meet my husband.—New York Sun.

Pleasant for Mamma.

Little Johnny (looking curiously at the visitor)—Where did the chicken bite you, Mr. Billus? I don't see any of the marks.

Visitor—Why, Johnny, I haven't been bitten by any chicken.

Johnny—Mamma, didn't you tell papa Mr. Billus was dreadfully henpecked? Why, mamma, how funny you look! Your face is all red.—Old Joke.

Too Much to Stand.

George—How is this? I hear your engagement with the Widow De Pink is broken off, and that you did it.

Gus (sadly)—Yes, it is true. She has a child.

"But you knew that all along."

"Yes, but I didn't know until lately that that child was practicing four hours a day on the violin."—Philadelphia Record.

Always Polite.

"There's one thing about De Jinks," said Merritt. "You never know him to ask you to have a drink."

"Yes, I have," replied Bjones. "He asked me only last night, and after we had it he made an apology for not having any change."—New York Evening Sun.

Why Fathers-in-Law Fail.

Mrs. Petard (as the demand for pin money is being haggled over)—Very well, if you can't give me a check, I shall go down and see papa. He never refuses.

Mr. Petard—I was just going to run in on the old gentleman myself. Give me the first chance, won't you?—Time.

Guarding Against Future Evils.

Sheriff (to doomed man)—I must now conduct you to the scaffold. Will you have a drink of whisky to stimulate you?

"No, thank you; when I drink whisky I always have a horrible headache next morning."—Nebraska State Journal.

The Lizzie Hoyle Mystery.

The confession of Alice Hoyle that her statement incriminating Cowie and McQuaid in the murder of her sister is false, leaves the mystery as deep and dark as ever. The two men have now been released, and there will be no trial.

As Accommodating Husband.

Jones—Do you tell your wife where you spend your evenings?

Smith—Yes, when I know.—Texas Siftings.

THE PLUCKY SWISS

Retains His Old Love of Freedom—Bismarck as a Bully.

London, June 6.—News comes from Berne that considerable friction has developed between the German and Swiss governments over the recent expulsion from Swiss territory of the German police official Herr Wohlgemuth. The German authorities at Berlin are never at their ease if there is a single German socialist in Europe without a policeman to shadow him, and to look after the colony of exiles in Switzerland. The government officials at Berlin not long ago sent Wohlgemuth into the country, and this gentleman growing restless because his intended victims would not promptly make a move which would entitle him to pounce upon them, bribed a swiss socialist to go among them to stir them up. This man, however, instead of leading his German brethren into the trap so neatly set for them, disclosed the whole proceedings to his government, whereupon Wohlgemuth was promptly imprisoned. German official influence secured his release, but he was given twenty-four hours to shake the dust of Switzerland from his feet. This, it was thought at the time, would more than satisfy the German government, but in this the Swiss made a mistake. Bismarck now demands that the decree of expulsion be rescinded, claiming that the Swiss had failed to observe to Germany the usual diplomatic courtesy. The whole proceedings excites considerable indignation. Diplomats here who are acquainted with the facts say that Germany is playing the part of a big bully towards her weaker neighbor. This is not the only case which Switzerland has on her hands. A Russian spy was recently expelled under similar circumstances and Russia is now also raising a hubbub about it. The pluck of Germany and Russia uniting their forces to crush poor little Switzerland would be an instructive one to the enthusiastic admiration of mesmerbial chivalry.

THE LAND EXCHANGE.

To the Editor of The Times:

Sir,—The more land exchange is discussed the more are we likely to get the true version of condition of matters concerning this much talked of subject. I see the Colonist points out that it was not Mr. Semlin's motion that was carried in reference to the proposed change, but one brought up by Mr. Theodore Davie, member for Victoria. It is also pointed out by one of the correspondents that owing to Mr. Semlin's constituents suffering from the condition of the laws as they exist, it was his duty to have the matter changed to relieve his own neighbors in their embarrassment in mining. But what object Theodore Davie had in bringing in such a resolution I cannot see, unless it was for the purpose of suiting the local government's views. I come to this conclusion because the Colonist says that the resolution of Mr. T. Davie's constituted the authority of the government to negotiate for an exchange of land. The truth is then that Victoria has to thank one of her own representatives, Mr. Theodore Davie, for the proposed change of lands. We cannot account for a representative of our city to be so blind to her interests as to propose such a deal, but Mr. Theodore Davie, but upon assisting the local government in all schemes they advocate, comes forward and formulates a resolution which constitutes the authority of the government in this to negotiate for the exchange." A little more discussion on this question and we will be able to judge who are looking after our interests, and who are our true representatives.

VICTORIA.

RE "PUBLIC ACCOUNTS".

To the Editor of The Times:

Sir,—"Over-paid Orphan" quotes the fare for the Provincial Secretary to Westminster at $29. He must have made a mistake, as the published schedule gives it $5. Perhaps he will explain this.

CANADIAN NEWS.

The recent frost in the neighborhood of Owen Sound is estimated to have damaged the grape, plum and apple crops to the extent of fifty thousand dollars.

Rev. Philippe Baillieres, who has been preaching in Toronto as a converted happy go lucky, has written to Vicar General Rooney a complete recantation and offers to enter on life-long penance. He has been a member of the Salvation Army and was mainly instrumental in exposing certain alleged abuses in the distribution of the funds of the Army.

Suspicious Disappearance.

Since the disappearance of Dr. Cronin, absentees leaving no trace of their whereabouts, become objects of peculiar interest. This is the case with Mr. James Gilmore, of Westover, Ontario, and a Whitby telegraph operator at Kamloops. Mr. Gilmore will relieve the anxiety of his friends by calling on or communicating with Wm. Garrick at the Clarence hotel.

Don't Know Our Country.

Mr. Patterson, one of the promoters and directors of the Shuswap and Okanagan Railway, was in the city yesterday, says the Vancouver News, on his way to Victoria and Westminster. He says that the company is negotiating at present with the hopes of making definite arrangements, whereby the actual work on the road may commence this season. One difficulty he finds in interesting capitalists is that the country of the Okanagan is not sufficiently known. It is not known to the people of British Columbia even, and much less to the outside world.

THE BRITISH COLUMBIA FIRE INSURANCE COMPANY.

TAKES RISKS ON THE CASH OR MUTUAL PLANS.

As this is a Home Company, organized by British Columbians for the two-fold purpose of giving cheap insurance and keeping the money in this Province, it commends itself to the support of every patriot desiring the prosperity of this country.

In Ontario, the system of insurance, which is similar to that adopted by this Company, has been in highly successful operation for the past fifty years, and it has proved to be a great advantage to every insurer in it, by reducing the cost of insurance, and it is estimated that now three-fourths of the insurance effected in Ontario is carried by mutual companies.

—A train of five passenger coaches and a freight car filled with good things left the E. & N. Railway depot at 10 o'clock this morning for Langford Plains, where the members of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church Sunday School picnicked.

—The Caledonian and St. Andrew's Society of the Royal City will fittingly notice the 575th anniversary of the most glorious day Scotland ever saw, the 24th of June, 1314, the battle of Bannockburn, Scotland's Marathon and most imperishable in memory.

—Mr. C. E. Riggins, Beamsville, writes, "A customer who tried a bottle of Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery says it is the best thing he ever used; to quote his own words, 'It just seemed to touch the spot affected.' About a year ago he had an attack of bilious fever, and was afraid he was in for another, when I recommended this valuable medicine with such happy results."

Big Gun Practice.

Her Majesty's ships of war, Swiftsure, Amphion, and Icarus, will steam out of Esquimalt harbor at daylight on Monday morning for big gun practice in the straits. The vessels will remain outside Monday night, and return to Esquimalt on Tuesday.

A Danger in the Park.

As Mr. Dan. Mills was returning from Beacon Hill yesterday afternoon he observed the grass near the magazine in the park to be on fire. He went over to the magazine and found the fire to be within a few feet of it. He put the fire out and it is just possible averted a serious accident. Surely it is careless and a dangerous thing to have a powder magazine in the centre of a public park where hundreds of people congregate at least two days in the week to enjoy themselves.

Not the Goody-Goody Kind.

The Dominion Government is to erect a postoffice in Vancouver with the public money. The Government propose to erect it in one place, the people want it in another. The editors, as usual, are dumb over it, but the correspondents are busy. One of the latter, less anxious to be considered a goody-goody conservative when public interests are at stake, writes as follows: "But we can at least show the people of the Dominion what sort of a Government they are supporting and show that we are worthy descendants of a race which has never tamely submitted to injustice." We are very tame all the same.

Timely Move.

Ald. Harrison has taken the bull by the horns, and will move the following resolution in the City Council:—

Whereas it has been stated through the public press, and in the Commons at Ottawa, as well as in the Legislature of this Province, that it is in contemplation to exchange lands in the Peace River country for lands along the line of the Canadian Pacific Railway. And whereas this Board is of opinion that said exchange cannot be made under existing circumstances without seriously injuring the prospects of the construction of a second transcontinental railway through this territory, and, consequently, inflicting serious and permanent injury to this city and province. Therefore, be it resolved, that this Board is of opinion that the Provincial Government should refrain from taking any steps to bring about said exchange during the holding of office of the present Government, or without an appeal to the country having first been made.

For the Sufferers.

A subscription list was opened at the City Hall this morning for the sufferers by the Seattle fire and the Johnstown flood. For the former the sum of $30 was at once subscribed in amounts ranging from $5 to $50 each. The Johnstown appeals have received liberal and prompt aid running into millions of dollars. The general opinion is that if Victoria was in need Seattle would nobly respond. Dr. Helmcken, with his usual liberality, to-day sent his check to Mayor Grant for $50, one-half to be given to the sufferers at Seattle, and the other half to Johnstown. The subscription list will be at Frank Campbell's corner after office hours at the city hall, and every person will thus have an opportunity to subscribe. Many of the people of Seattle have lost everything they possessed and no doubt hundreds will be dependent upon charity for the necessaries of life. Assistance should be given promptly and generously. Mayor Grant will forward donations to the relief committee, and we have no doubt the total amount subscribed will be in keeping with the liberal standing and well-known generosity of our citizens.

News from Saanich.

The farmers are now busy haying. The crop is fairly good and the weather is excellent for saving it.

It is reported that Mr. Camp, of the Royal Oak, has purchased the Prairie Tavern south of Saanich.

Sudden Death.

Charles W. Brix, a native of Breslau, Germany, aged 42 years, suddenly expired last night from heart disease while entering his residence on Johnson street. The deceased was a cabinet maker and was in apparently the best of health when stricken down. A wife is left to mourn his loss.

Looking for Bricks.

Three contractors arrived from Seattle yesterday afternoon and at once canvassed to negotiate with Mr. Humber for bricks in unlimited quantities. They also wished to take the output of his brickyard for several months to come. Mr. Humber having a market here for all the bricks he can manufacture, had to decline the offer.

Comox News.

Farmers report exceedingly heavy crops.

Dr. Strothers has decided to commence practice in the town.

A new schoolhouse and better mail communication are two urgent wants.

The building boom has struck the embryo city and the sound of the hammer is heard on all sides.

Charity Begins at Home.

The citizens of Seattle, with their usual generosity, had raised a considerable fund for the Johnstown sufferers, but in view of the late terrible fire the fitting maxim should be remembered, "Charity begins at home." Their mite would be better saved to themselves, under the circumstances, seeing that millions of dollars are pouring into Johnstown from all quarters.

Sunday Concert.

The Sacred Concert Band will perform in the Park to-morrow afternoon the following choice programme:—

Maritana	Wallace
La Paloma	Iversen
I Would that My Love	Mendelssohn
Crown Jewels	Auber
Fisherman's Prayer	Hartman
Gloria from Twelfth Mass	Mozart
The Vision	Meneman
Cujus Animam	Rossini
God Save the Queen.

New Residence.

Tenders for the new and palatial residence to be erected for Mr. A. A. Green, on the corner of Moss and Belcher streets, were sent in to the architect, Mr. Ridgway-Wilson, to-day, and the successful tenderer will be known in a few days. It is known that the figures will approximate $25,000. The residence, according to contractors, will be one of the finest and most comfortable of any in the city. It will be two storeys and a basement.

A Close Call.

The steamer Mexico had a narrow escape from being burned in Seattle. She was lying at the dock when the conflagration took place, and as no danger was apprehended, steam was allowed to go down. When then fire swept down on the water front, the steamer Starr took hold of her and attempted to tow her out. The wind, however, was so strong that the steamer was blown over against the coal bunkers, where her fire apparatus had to be used to keep her from burning.

Church Notices.

St. Andrew's Presbyterian.—Mr. R. E. Knowles will preach morning and evening.

Gorge Road Methodist.—Rev. Mr. Baer, the new pastor, will officiate morning and evening. Rev. Mr. Wadman will conduct Sunday School anniversary services in Nanaimo.

Christ Church Cathedral.—To-morrow at 5 p. m. the annual flower service will be held in this church. Children are invited to bring with them bouquets for presentation and distribution to the hospitals. All are cordially invited.

Gayety at Esquimalt.

Rear-Admiral Algernon C. F. Heneage entertained at dinner on board H. M. S. Swiftsure, last evening, the H. Judge O'Reilly, Mrs. O'Reilly, Miss O'Reilly, Chas. E. Vernon, Mrs Vernon, the commanders of H. M. S. Amphion and Icarus and several other officers. After dinner the party adjourned to Temperance Hall, where a grand ball, given by the officers of the fleet, was in progress. About 200 guests were present, who tipped the light fantastic to the excellent music of the Swiftsure's band. The hall was beautifully decorated and a sumptuous supper lent additional charm to a charming event.

News From the Sealers.

Mr. A. Frank, of this city, returned last evening from Clayoquot Sound, west coast. He reports the schooner Black Diamond as having left Ahousat for Behring Sea on the 27th of May, and the Wanderer, which was in at the same time, was preparing to leave. The Ariel left for the north on the 1st instant. The Beatrice left on the 3rd after landing her catch of 499 at Clayoquot Sound. The Ariel in addition to the catch which she brought in here, landed 102 skins at Clayoquot. The Mary, Sapphire, Walter N. Rich, and Maggie Mac were spoken by some of the schooners in port. All were doing fairly well.

Church Dedication.

The New Methodist Church at Denman Island was dedicated Thursday afternoon by the Rev. Mr. Hall, pastor of the Church in Nanaimo, assisted by the Rev. Mr. Baer. The steamer was late arriving at the Island, and the services had to be somewhat curtailed on that account. Nearly all the residents on the island were present and greatly appreciated the services. The sermon in connection with the dedication was delivered by Rev Mr. Hall. The Church was tastefully decorated for the occasion and presented a pleasing appearance. Rev. Mr. Baer bid farewell to his congregation on the Island, and came down on the Isabel to accept the pastorate of the Gorge Road church.

News from Rock Creek.

The latest news from Rock Creek was received last evening from Mr. A. O. Roy who made the journey out from the camp in the unprecedented time of four days. Mr. Roy, who is foreman of the Laura hydraulic claim, says the ground prospects well and the claim is undoubtedly a rich one. The sawmill erected by the company is completed and he has come out to superintend the purchase of the hydraulic machinery. He expects to get to work sluicing by the first of August.

At McKennyville, Rock Creek, Douglas is sinking a shaft through good ore and is running night and day shifts. The general evidence is that this is going to be a good camp.

Parties were recently in from Spokane examining quartz claims, and thought very highly of them.

The Nicola Mines.

Dr. T. J Jones, Victoria, returned from the Nicola mines on Wednesday, and while waiting for the Islander to leave was interviewed by the Vancouver News-Advertiser representative. He is one of the owners of the Jennie Long Mine, which is now being developed and in which a small quantity of exceedingly rich ore was taken, assaying $2,000 per ton in gold and silver. The shaft is down 300 feet in the Joshua mine, and the ledge, which is showing richer all the time and changing into grey copper, assaying from $300 to $500 per ton, is widening. Experts from England are coming out next month, and mining prospects somewhat depend upon their report. If favorable, great activity will follow. Dr. Jones spoke glowingly of the country and Nicola, which is now in the full height of its summer glory. Ranching business never was better—the hills afford well and feed is abundant. The ranchers are making the most out of the 24 hours of each day, and they are all doing well. Cattle look in splendid condition.

THE GREAT FLOOD.

Relief Committee at Work Helping the Destitute—The Disaster Widespread.

A Funeral Procession Wiped Out and Corpse Burned—More Fatalities.

[By Postal Telegraph.]

Milton, Pa., June 8.—The board of relief and sanitary has been appointed, whose duties are to look after the proper cleaning of cellars and houses, of lumpools and stagnant places, and $800 donated to their use. The mud, slime and debris, left by the flood, is now being carted away. The citizens are doing what they can to repair their damaged homes and premises. Caldwhilader Biddle, of the State Board of Charities, arrived here last night and found the relief commission attending to immediate wants of distress.

Johnstown, June 8.—Lying along South Ward school house is a coffin partially burnt. Inquiry developed the fact that at the time the water reached Johnstown, a funeral was being held in the Catholic church, the mourners and carriages standing in front of the church were swept away. The church took fire subsequently and the coffin and corpse were partially consumed. What was left of the body was recognized and buried. None of those present in church are known to be saved.

Williamsport, Pa., June 8.—A more painful state of affairs is apparent here to-day. With a partial resumption of railway communication and a generous contribution of money and provisions from the outside world for the sufferers here, the spirits of our people are rising. All of this is evident from the activity of the people to resume their normal condition prior to the flood. It is also evident from the fact that our citizens have already contributed $20,000 for needy ones.

Montgomery bridge is expected to be in readiness for travel by to-morrow evening or Sunday. The first mails to arrive here from the east for a week were distributed this morning. The relief committee from Troy, Pa., reached the city last night, after a perilous journey. They report great damage there and people in need of aid. Wash Collins and Will Donnell rescued two hundred people from the flood in this city with skiffs. Edward Parker, who was in Johnstown, and was supposed to be lost, reached his home last night.

Wellsboro, June 8.—Tioga County is in a very bad shape owing to the number of people drowned. Much property was destroyed and people are suffering for the necessaries of life. Reports from Mansfield in the lower end of this county, have just reached here. They are to the effect that while no lives were lost, the loss of property is enormous. All the bridges in Lower Lycoming county are gone and small streams are raging torrents.

Port Jervis, N. Y., June 8—A letter was received in this city from S. F. Vanetten, manager of Hait Bros. tannery at Hoittville, Pa., a small village about 30 miles south of Elmira, which states that the recent flood destroyed the sawmill and several other large buildings. Eleven lives were lost, six of whom were employees of Hait Bros. tannery.

Johnstown, June 8—The sanitary condition of Kernville is bad and more disinfectants are needed. Rev. Mr. Read says there are still 1,000 bodies in the ruins at Kernville.

JURY SITTING.

Johnstown, June 8—Coroner Hammer, of Westmoreland, County, sitting on the inquest upon the bodies found at Nineveh, took the jury to the dam yesterday, and a verdict is being prepared for the signatures of the jurymen. It will throw the blame upon the South Park Fishing and Hunting Club for gross, if not criminal, negligence and carelessness in making repairs from time to time. Some talk is also heard of blaming the Pennsylvania R R, as they held the dam from the club and then abandoned it and allowed it to decay.

Johnstown, June 8.—The chief question now is to procure sufficient supplies for the homeless victims of the flood and for laborers engaged in removing the wreckage for former. Prepared food of all kinds, clothing and shoes are chiefly required. It is still believed there are fully two hundred bodies in the debris around the railroad bridge. This mass of material will be blown up with dynamite in order to recover the bodies as soon as possible. Fears of disease from many unfortunate conditions existing still prevail. Diphtheria cases are quite numerous and the removal of decomposing masses in this vicinity is necessary. The situation at Williamsport is somewhat improved, according to dispatches received this morning, though the sufferers there are in need of immediate help. Thousands of people are homeless at Lewiston and help is also badly needed there.

THE IDENTIFIED DEAD.

Pittsburg, Pa., June 8.—The Times presents to-day the first accurate list of the identified dead of the Johnstown calamity, or those virtually known to be dead, yet published. This was prepared by careful comparison with the register of the living, as compiled by the bureau of registration. By this it is learned that fully 50 persons heretofore accounted dead are really alive. The number of discovered dead are constantly increasing, but the estimate 9,500, as published, is the highest possible limit according to all reports, and the decreasing death of Johnstown may possibly reduce the total to near 8,000. The number of bodies unidentified to date is 3,334, and there are hundreds of victims yet whose bodies will never be recovered. The list fills three and a half column, with two or more names to a line.

The Last Rites.

The funeral of the late Hon. John Hamilton Gray, Judge of the Supreme Court of British Columbia, took place this afternoon. The procession moved from the late residence, Fort street, at 2:30 p. m. to Christ Church Cathedral, where the impressive services were conducted by the Ven. Archdeacon Scriven assisted by the Rev. P. Jenns and the Rev. A. Beanlands. The funeral was attended by the city members of the Dominion House of Commons, members of the provincial Government, the Mayor, leading business men, members of the bar, public officials, and others of varying degrees of prominence. The general idea of the arrangements, however, was of a private character. A wealth of roses covered the lid of the beautiful silver casket which encased the remains, while many wreaths and crosses adorned the roof of the hearse. The services over, the procession moved from the church to Ross Bay Cemetery at 3 o'clock. Following were the pallbearers: R. E. Jackson, Rob. Ward, Hon. P. O. Relly, W. C. Ward, Hon. A. N. Richards, C. E. Pooley, E. C. Baker, M. P., Hon. John Robson, Dr. Wm. Bayard, Hon. Judge Crease, Sir Leonard Tilley, Sir M. B. Begbie. The church organist, Mr. Hookway, presided at the organ during the services.

Rich Gold Strike.

A Yale correspondent writes to the Columbian that James Dunn and J. P. Roderick have discovered the gold bearing quartz ledge that feeds the well known Siwash creek, out of which many fine nuggets have been washed. The pure gold can be seen with the naked eye in the cap rock, and the new ledge is considered one of the richest ever found in British Columbia. Mr. Dunn is about sixty years of age, and has worked as a miner for many years. He had been working and prospecting alone through out the whole of last winter, and at last after many days of weary toil he has reaped his reward by striking a ledge which cannot fail to make him a rich man. There is considerable excitement in Yale over the discovery, and it is expected a rush will take place immediately for Siwash creek.

DIED.

Brix.—In this city on the 7th inst., Charles W. Brix, a native of Breslau-Schlesien, Germany, aged 42 years.

The funeral will take place Sunday, at 4 p.m. from his late residence, Johnson street, between Douglas and Blanchard streets.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria,
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria,
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria,
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.
